LECTURE BEFORE THE YOUNG MEN'S MEN-CANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.—Rev. E. L. Magoon, of New York, lectured to a small audience, at Smith & Nixon's Hall last night, on the subject of Laziness, considered as a national, and not as an individual trait. He commenced by saying that there were two governing forces in the world-policy and principle. In Europe, Russia was the representative of the former, and France of the latter. He said that the French, of all people, most abhorred despotism, and that the Emperor Napoleon was the embodiment of Gollie blasty. He then were needed. the Emperor Napoleon was the embodiment of Gallic liberty. He then pronounced an extravagant eulogium upon that individual, which completely eclipsed any thing that had ever been said or written by the second John S. C. Abbot—Henry J. Raymond.

Leaving Europe, he compared the energy of the North to the indolence of the South, and thanked God that the foreign element.

and thanked God that the foreign element had become so commingled in the center, that a balance was preserved. that a balance was preserved.

The speaker was frequently witty, and occasionally somewhat philosophical; but when ever he tried to be elequent, he failed; indeed, his attempts at pathos were so ridiculous and absurd, that they provoked a smile from the active availance.

Serious Apprav in Millorere Township.

An Ardent Lover Draws a Domestic Weapon to Strike his Intended Mother-in-law—How an Uncle and a Constable Interfered to Thwart his Happiness.—The old adage, that the course of true love never did run smooth, was again exemplified in this vicinity yesterday. Some time sinces man named Owen.

S. Parker, of this city, became acquainted with a young lady, the daughter of Mrs. Jane Moore, who resides in Milloreck Township, and, after a short intimacy, proposed marriage, to which she assented, and the parties even went so far as to fix the day upon which they were to be made happy. The mother of the girl appeared delighted, and every thing went on smoothly till last week, when, for some unaccountable reason, she conceived a violent hatred for her proposed son-in-law, and informed her daughter that henceforth she should never see him more. But the latter determined not to be SERIOUS AFFRAY IN MILLORERK TOWNSHIP that henceforth she should never see him more. But the latter determined not to be foiled by the whim of an old woman, and immediately set out for the city, sought out her betrethed, informed him of the altered condition of affairs, and arged him not to be deterred from his visits, but to take such precautions as he might deem necessary.

Hardly believing that matters really stood as represented, Parker want to Mrs. Moore's, day before yesterday, but had scarcely entered the house when he was ordered to leave, which he refused to do, until he had a conference with the girl. The result of this peremptory command and positive refusal conference with the girl. The result of this peremptory command and positive refusal was aviolent wordy altercation, in the midst of which Parker seized a broom-affek and drew it upen Mrs. Moore, who beat a hasty retreat as far as the back door, where the pursoer was confronted by her brother, who drew a shot-gun and lodged the contents, consisting of about forty pigeon-shot, in the body of Parker, but without causing any dangerous wounds. Soon after a constable, who lives in the vicinity, arrived, and the frightened lover was taken before Justice Meyers and committed to jail to keep the peace.

WASHINGTON, December 20.
SENATE—The President annonaced the receipt of the report of A. D. Bache, Superintendent of Coast Survey, from the Secretary of the Trassurv. Ordered to be tary of the Treasury.

Mr. Hunter, from the Committee on Finance, reported back the Tariff Bill, with a recommendation that it be postponed till the 4th of March next. Laid on the table. Mr. Clark moved to take up his resolution Ar. Clark moved to take up his resolution of inquiry.

A message was received from the House, that it had passed a bill to supply the deficiency in the postal service for 1861.

Mr. Kennedy thought that the resolution would take up too much time.

Mr. Clark said that the rumors abroad did more than increase the excitement than any thing else. He thought that the best thing was to find out the truth of the whole mat ter. He had no desire to do any thing to increase excitement. Mr. Lane objected to taking up the resolution. He was for peace.

Mr. Hunter wanted it postponed until we see whether the Committee of Thirteen do any thing to allay the excitement.

Mr. Mason said that he supposed the object of the mover was, after he got the information, by another resolution to require that trends he said to these forms.

that troops be sent to these forts. Mr. Davis contended that the inquiries were improper to make of the President. The President could not send troops now without bringing about a collision.

The special order, Mr. Johnson's resolution, was taken up.

Mr. Pugh spoke at length in reply to the arguments of his colleague (Mr. Wade), denouncing the speech of the latter as inflammable. He charged that the Republican Party so conducted themselves as to inspire altern. The difficulty is the Seath Latter. alarm. The difficulty is, the South has read and heard too much of that party. He did not regard the personal-liberty bills of any practical value, only as their object could be to insult the Southern States. He referred o the decision of Gov. Dennison, and said the thought it entirely wrong; and now when the Senator from Kentucky came forward with a fair line of parting, we have not heard one voice in favor of it from the Re-publican side.

Why could not gentlemen come forward Why could not gentlemen come forward and meet it fairly? There could be no objections to the proposition of the Senator from Kentucky, except to carry on intestine strife. He did not design to offend the Senators of that party, but to show their vast responsibility on them. They have the power. All opposing parties are shattered. His colleague said the day of compromises was passed. If so, the day of union was passed, for the Union was founded on compromise. His colleague complains of the weakness of past colleague complains of the weakness of past compage compains of the weakness of past compromises.

Then let us put this where it can not be broken, into the Constitution of the United States. He hoped, so far as the Territorial question was concerned, all parties would unite on the basis of the resolutions of Mr. Crittenden. Thus this question, which has distracted us so long, will be put at rest for ever. He called upon those living in the distracted us so long, will be put at rest for-ever. He called upon those living in the distant States to help avert civil war, a ca-lamity which would fall on the border States. He would not debate the right of secession. He thought this was the path of duty and wisdom. He believed that in the programme of his colleague we shall be driven to the verge of rain. Separate Confederacies had no charm for him. no charm for him.

Mr. Nicholson got the floor and the matter was postponed.

The Vice-President announced the committee on Powell's resolution, viz:

HOUSE-Mr. Delano, of Mass., asked leave to offer the following, which was read for information: "WHEREAS: By a report of the proceed-age in the South Carolina State Convention held on the 19th inst., the Hon. Mr. Porcher held on the 19th inst., the Hon. Mr. Porcher Miles, a member of this House, used the following language: "In a conversation, and subsequently, in a written communication to the President, I know this to have been said, 'If you send a solitary soldier to those forts, the instant the intelligence reaches our people, (and we will take care it does reach us before it can reach the forts,) they will be taken because such a course is necessary to taken, because such a course is necessary to our safety and self-preservation; "therefore, "Resolved: That the President be requested to communicate to this House what informa-tion he has received, either verbal or in writing, to the effect that if the forts at Charleston are further reinforced they will be taken by any force or authority hostile to the authority and supremacy of the United States." [Excitement on the Southern side.]

Mr. Ashmore wanted to know where the aformation came from.
Mr. Delano replied, in the published proceedings of the South Carolina Convention.
The Speaker said that neither debate nor the resolution were now in order. The lat-ter can be taken up at another time. Mr. Reynolds, from the Judiciary Committee, made a report in the Watrous impeachment case.

The consideration was postponed till thursday next; also, a bill to repeal the county claims. The House went into Committee of the Whole on the bill granting lands to Ne-braska for railroads.

The committee adopted Curtis's substitute, which provides for a start from the Western borders of Missouri and Iowa, two converging lines uniting with 200 miles of the Missouri River, thence one line to California; also, for two converging lines from Fort Smith and the Western border of Louisiana, to unite the Southern Pacific Road chartered by Secession Ordinance Passed!

CHARLESTON, December 20 .- The Chair announced the committee to draft a sum-mary of causes for the secession of South Carolina; also, four standing com oittees.

Mr. Rhett's resolution for a com mittee of All, Refer is resolution for a committee of thirteen to provide for the assemblage of a convention of the seceding States and form a constitution, was adopted.

Mr. Ingols reported the following ordinary.

nance:
"We, the people of South Carolina, its Convention assembled, do declare and ordain that the ordinance adopted by us in the Convention of the 23d of May, 1778, whereby the Constitution of the United States was actified and all acts or parts of acts of the ratified, and all acts or parts of acts of the General Assembly of the State ratifying amendments to the said Constitution, are hereby repealed, and the union now subsisting between South Carolina and other States under the name of the United States of America is bareful discalard."

america, is hereby dissolved."

The ordinance was passed unanimously by 169 members, at quarter past one o'clock. The news spread rapidly, and a crowd collected, which did some immense cheering.

Mr. Miles moved that the clerk telegraph he members at Washington. Carried unanimously.

The ordinance was ordered to be engrossed n parchment, and is to be signed by the resident and members at half-past six this vening, at Institute Hall, and to be placed in the archives of the State.

In the debate on the adoption of the ordinance, Mr. Magrath said: "What you have done to day has extinguished the authority of every man in South Carolina deriving his authority from the General Government. I am in favor of this body making such provisional arrangements as may be necessary in the interval which exists between this moment and the time the Legislature may act. I am not, however, to be implicated in the idea that there is no lawful authority within the limits of the State except the General Government."
